Meant To Be

By Art M.

I met Becky at a party on a Sunday in August 1988. It was a surprise party. Becky knew who the party was for. I did not. I came with a friend.

For me, it was love at first sight! We talked at the party. I proposed to her that night! Becky said yes that night!

We dated and got married 1 year later.

My Next Adventure

By Lisa G.

I love adventures.

I have zip lined three times.

The first time was on a Royal Caribbean cruise.

It was a good place to begin but I wanted more excitement.

The second time was in Kansas and the third time was in New Jersey.

Now I want to skydive.

The best place to start is in Paramus at iFLY where I can skydive indoors.

If I like it, I will find a place where I can go up in an airplane and jump out, but not alone.

That means I want to do tandem skydiving, which means I will have a professional on my back when I jump out of the plane.

There is a cool skydiving company in New Jersey called SKYDIVEJERSEY.

It looks like the perfect place for me to skydive outdoors for the first time.

Hudson Yards

By Alyson B.

I have been very curious to hear what has been going on with Hudson Yards!

The Vessel, the shopping center, is a 16-story, 150-foot-high level of linked staircases between the buildings of Hudson Yards, located in the 5-acre Hudson Yards Public Square. The shopping and food are great.

If you would like to visit Hudson Yards.

As a former teacher, I have been to the High Line many times. One of the programs was Trains, Shipping, and Cargo Zipping: History on the High Line. As part of this exploration, we had a scavenger hunt. I had a fun time.

The High Line starts at Gansevoort and Washington Street in the Meatpacking District (right near the new Whitney Museum) and ends at 34th street and 11th Avenue.

Cat Mom

By Crystal B.

On Saturday, March 30th, I adopted two cats, Sherlock and Wendell. They are both one year old and were born in North Carolina. They came from the Rutherford Humane Society. The choice was easy because having a pet has helped my recovery from my stroke, I suffered on July 9, 2016.

My first cat, Panda was adopted from the same place and offered me hope and companionship. Panda passed away on November 2, 2018 and I feel emotionally ready to take on the challenge of being a cat Mom.

Sherlock is a cuddle buddy and he sleeps on my shoulder. He also likes rubbing cheek to cheek and doesn't like wearing a collar so he takes off his tag every day.

Wendell is a little shy, he likes to be rubbed but not held and he sleeps near the end of the bed. He likes to eat when no one is watching and loves dry food.

Below are pictures of the happy cats.
